

Christmas 2010

Its that time of year again, a time to reflect both personally and professionally on the past year's accomplishments and focus towards 2011.

For the past several years our company has chosen to forego offering Christmas presents, flowers and chocolates to our network – choosing instead to put these dollars to work for people in need.

In this year 2010 the world has had its fair share of challenges and in some places, devastation to overcome. The FMI team has chosen this year to share our budget, between 2 organizations.
